BROUGHTON D. HARRIS.

His Sudden Death Last Evening.

The Event Was Entirely Unexpected—Sketch of Mr. Harris' Active and Useful Life.

Hon. Broughton D. Harris died at his home on Main street at about 9 o'clock last evening after a very brief illness. The fact that he was ill was not widely known and the announcement of his death came upon the community with a painful shock. Mr. Harris had suffered somewhat for two or three days from what appeared to be a slight attack of indigestion, but was able to attend the funeral of his old-time friend, Judge K. W. Clarke, Wednesday afternoon. He was suffering severely when he returned home, however, and his distress soon became intense. His physician succeeded in partially relieving it, and on Thursday the affection of the stomach seemed to be yielding to medical treatment. The distress returned, however, and it became served on the committee on railroads. He was elected in 1861 and was chairman of the important committee on military affairs at a time when nearly all of the sessional legislation related to matters of a warlike nature. The members of this senate were probably the ablest body of legislators ever assembled in Vermont. Among Mr. Harris' associates were such men as George F. Edmunds, Paul Dingham, Ashael Peck, John W. Stewart, C. W. Willard, F. E. Woodbridge and Thomas E. Powers. In this corps of intellectual giants Mr. Harris was both conspicuous and influential, as attested by his position at the head of the most important committee.

Gov. Fairbanks appointed Mr. Harris to serve with ex-Gov. Willard Hall, Gen. H. H. Baxter, L. E. Chittenden and Levi Underwood in the celebrated peace congress which assembled in Washington, on invitation from the state of Virginia, just before the outbreak of the civil war. Mr. Harris was for years engaged in the construction of railroads, and in this work made a handsome fortune. He was the senior member of the firm of Harris Brothers & Co. The list of railroads constructed in whole or in part by this firm includes the Wisconsin Central in Wisconsin; the Plattsburg and Whitehall, New York; part of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy in Central Illinois; the Buffalo and Suspension Bridge, New York; part of the Buffalo, New York and Philadelphia; the Chenango and Alleghany, Pennsylvania; the Brattleboro and Whitehall narrow gauge railroad; the St. Louis, Jerseyville and Springfield, Illinois; and the Pittsburgh, McKeesport and Youghiogheny, Pennsylvania.

Mr. Harris was predominantly a man of intellectual strength. With respect to his keenness and independence of thought and conviction, and his ability to express himself in clean-cut, incisive English he belonged in the class with the ablest men whom Vermont has produced. His native ability and his labors built up mind and character made him the fit and recognized companion, intellectually and socially, of the men who have given Vermont her fame in the eventful days since 1800.

With both Senator Morrill and Senator Edmunds he enjoyed intimate personal friendship. He came to his young manhood when aggressive political controversy was in its palmiest days, and the columns of The Phoenix and The Eagle of that time prove how trenchant was his pen, and how easily he was equal to the situation. In the local discussions and controversies of later years he was a contributor with equal force and incisiveness. The prominent part which he bore in the preliminary work which made ready for the construction of the Brattleboro & Whitehall railroad is a recent and familiar illustration. His erect, well-knit frame and serene but admirably complemented his intellectual force.

In a company of his peers few men were so quick of wit, so brilliant in repartee, or possessed such a ready fund of information or of apt and amusing anecdote with which to illustrate a point or enforce an argument.

Since retiring from prominent business activity as a railroad constructor Mr. Harris lived quietly at his home in Brattleboro, Mr. and Mrs. Harris often spending the winters in the South. He has maintained a lively interest in all community affairs, and his main business activity has been in connection with the affairs of the Brattleboro Savings bank. Of this bank he was an original incorporator and has always been a member of the board of trustees and for a long time of years a member of the board of investment. He had been president of the bank since 1881. He was an ardent and successful sportsman. He gave liberally for the support of that church, and was wise, generous and open-handed in the support of every public enterprise that commended itself to his judgment and sympathy. His strong constitution and notably correct habits of life had kept him strong, vigorous and in full command of himself both physically and intellectually.

Mr. Harris is survived by his wife, who was Sarah Buell Hollister, daughter of the late Edward M. Hollister of New York, and one daughter, Mary Buell, wife of John Seymour Wood, a lawyer and well-known author of New York city. He was also survived by his only son, the late survivor of his father's family, lives in Keene. Mr. Harris's step-mother, his father's third wife, lives on High street. Mr. Harris's father died in this town 10 or 12 years ago. George F. Harris and Gordie D. Harris were the brothers associated with Mr. Harris in railroad building. Urban Wilder, the youngest of the family, died in 1857.

The funeral will be held at the house on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The body will lie in state from 10 to 12. Rev. W. H. Collins of St. Michael's Episcopal church will officiate.

JUDGE J. H. WATSON.

Gov. Smith Appoints a Native of Jamaica to the Supreme Court Bench.

Gov. Smith has appointed John Henry Watson of Bradford a judge of the Vermont supreme court. Judge Taft is made chief judge, and the other judges are advanced one place, their rank being as follows: Judge Lowell, Judge Tyler, Judge Munson, Judge Starr, Judge Thompson, Judge Watson. The new appointee was born in Jamaica, May 12, 1851. He worked on a farm while attending school and academy. He studied law with Orrin Gambell of Bradford and was admitted to the Orange county bar in 1877. He formed a partnership with his instructor, and at its dissolution six months later assumed control of the large and varied business. He was state's attorney in 1880 and a member of the state senate in 1892. He was elected captain of the Bradford Guards in 1888 and served afterward as major and lieutenant colonel. He retired from military service a year ago after being elected colonel. Mr. Watson's wife was Clara L., daughter of Darwin A. and Laura L. (Fitts) Hammond of West Brattleboro. They have two sons.

THE UNIVERSALIST FAIR.

A Successful Event, but the Attendance Was Smaller Than Usual.

The ladies of the Universalist society gave a successful fair at Foster hall last evening, but the attendance was not as large as in many former years, owing to the illness in many families. An excellent supper was served from 5:30 to 8 o'clock, and from 8 to 12 was devoted to dancing, in which many young people joined.

The booths were mostly arranged on the sides of the hall, and from them a large variety of articles were sold.

An object of particular interest to the little folk was the big yellow pumpkin, in charge of Mrs. S. W. Edwards and Miss May Edwards, and from which the pleasant parades were obtained. The apron table was trimmed with white apple blossoms. Mrs. Rockwell, Mrs. Morris and Mrs. Lindsey were in charge. The candy table was formed with a large evergreen and floral bell at the top, from which laurel ropes were festooned. Candy was used as a punch bowl from which Mrs. Hubbard, Mrs. Brown and Miss Addie Bailey dispensed lemonade. The trimmings were of holly. A pretty background was arranged, with white screens and holly, palms and banquet lamps.

At the head of the hall near the stage was the flower booth, a handsome rustic affair, with decorations of pink poppies and smilax. The flowers were sold by Mrs. A. J. Currier and Mrs. Herbert Clark. White and Nile green formed the decorations for the Murray club booth on the south side of the hall. Here 10 cent bundles were sold by Miss Florence Lamson, Miss Stella Stickney, Miss Ella Newman and Miss Minnie Scott. The cake table was in charge of Mrs. Freeman Scott, assisted by Mrs. Stickney, Mrs. Flagg, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Hubbard. Mrs. Jerome Amidon and Mrs. C. L. Spear were in charge of the supper tables, and they were assisted by a number of the women of the parish.

The amount of the net receipts is not known at present, but the total will be considerably less than in former years.

WEST BRATTLEBORO.

Miss Kate Wheeler is in Boston this week. After remaining there for a few days she will go to Brooklyn, N. Y., for a few weeks.

Strange things are happening this week. It is said that over Halifax way the people are just jussing their corn in some places, while here we are using runner chains on the street cars.

Perley Babbitt has been taking the school census, Carl Hopkins being ill and unable to do the work. Mr. Babbitt is a minister of the Methodist church, and his employment as a salesman for nursery stock.

William Mettels' boxing school is attracting attention among the lovers of the many art each Monday and Thursday evenings, and much enjoyment is got out of the friendly contests.

The Baptist young people's clothes-pin supper Tuesday evening had a large attendance which included a sleigh ride past the home of H. H. Houghton. A pleasing musical and literary program was rendered in the church after the supper.

Conductor Bert Sargent has been confined to his bed since Friday with appendicitis and grip. He has been very sick, but his many friends will be glad to know that his condition is slightly improved. His brother Chester is caring for him.

Harvey Miller has been sick this week with what was thought at first to be scarlet fever, but such is probably not the case. As a precaution against a possible spread of the disease the house has been quarantined. His disease is undoubtedly that of German measles, with which Helen Weatherhead and several other young people have been suffering.

Shakespeare's Great Words to Men.

Probably no words of Shakespeare have so impressed weak men as those well-known lines: "Canst thou minister to a weak and weary man, who is the trouble of the brain, and with some antidote, cleanse from that which so weighs upon the heart?" This thrilling yet plaintive cry finds an answer in the words of the great Shakespeare. Modern medical science has indeed provided the "antidote," and the discovery of a great remedy for the cure of nervous and physical debility. The Philadelphia Press of yesterday published an exposé of the late John W. Keely, of motor fame, showing that his mysterious power was compassed air. The article was illustrated, the pictures showing the tubing which was used underneath his shop.

The six-story building containing the shoe store of A. J. Cammeyer at 8th avenue, 19th and 20th streets in New York city were burned Wednesday night. Several firms beside Mr. Cammeyer were burned out. The total loss is estimated at $750,000.

Gen. Charles P. Eagan, who has achieved such undesirable notoriety of late, was born in Ireland. He was in Washington Territory when the civil war broke out, and served as a lieutenant in a regiment raised in that territory from 1862 to '65. In 1866 he was appointed second lieutenant in the 9th United States Infantry. In '74 he was appointed a commissary of subsistence and by successive promotions following the retirement of the officers who ranked him, he became commissary general at a comparatively recent date.
